

COMMUNICATIONS CHARTER

1. The tenants, board, management and staff recognise that overlaying all issues is a common commitment to building a successful, vibrant and unique arts, learning and cultural precinct for the benefit of all.
2. Notwithstanding the potential for disagreements in such a diverse and eclectic community, the values of respect, transparency and trust must underpin all communications. The Board, management and tenants will strive to ensure all communications are honest, timely, responsive, civil and relevant
3. Board members, management and staff recognise the passion and determination of many tenants to grow, innovate and succeed
4. Tenants recognise the obligations of the Board, management and staff to govern and operate the site within legislative, regulatory, contractual and fiduciary limitations.
5. The Board and management regularly informs all tenants about strategic issues and other important aspects of site development
6. Tenants are encouraged to participate in site activities, functions and meetings to help improve dialogue between tenants, management the Board and the community.
7. As a key stakeholder, the tenant community or its representatives will always be invited to participate in long-term strategic planning issues such as the five-year plan, the master plan and developing the Convent's governance model.
8. This charter is subject to annual revision through agreement by appropriate representatives of the Board, management and tenants.

Approved by representatives of the ACF Board, management and tenants at a meeting of the Communications Working Party on October 20, 2010.
